The Difference Between Plain Scratch-Off Labelling Panel (Plain Label), Holographic Scratch-Off Labelling Panel (Holographic Labels), Hot Stamping Scratch-Off Panel (Hot Stamping Panels and Holographic Hot Stamping Scratch-off Security Panel)

When hot foil is applied as scratch-off panel, it appears shiny – sometimes holographic (like a hologram) - and flat at the edges. Holographic hot stamping labels are more expensive than monochrome hot stamping foils. Although hot stamping foils and holographic hot stamping foils are sold by the square meter, we can estimate the number of security scratch-off panels that can be produced from one square meter of hot stamping foil. We estimate that approximately two thousand security scratch-off panels (2,000 security panels) are obtainable from one square meter of hot stamping foil.

Hot stamping panels are a little more expensive to produce because it is a slower process than labelling but the cost of the hot foil might be a little less than the holographic labels. Plain label scratch-off panels are the least expensive and have normal colours, sometimes with patterns or striated. These scratch-off panels are slightly raised at the edges. These are pasted on, not stamped; Holographic scratch-off labels mean what they suggest; presenting a hologram effect. These scratch-off labels have a variety of holographic effects and employ different holographic patterns. These scratch-off labels are pasted on the cards and are difficult to distinguish from hot stamping scratch-off panels. Holographic scratch-off labels are slightly more expensive than ordinary labels.
